LOU DILLON CASE AGAIN.

About Drugging of Trotter. in behalf of E. E. Smathers to get a look services. at an affidavit, alleged to have been made admitted he had carried out the drugging foot bruised. of Lou Dillon, when the trotting horse was defeated by Major Delmar, in their Hennessey and L. Smith for the remainrace for the Memphis Gold Cup in Octo- der of the meeting. The latter's offense is ber, 1904. Justice Dowling, to whom the application was made, has not yet granted the request.

Smathers' lawyer said the suit was a re pievin action, the cup presented by the Memphis Trotting Association having been seized in an action brought for its recovery by the trotting association, and eplevined by Smathers on giving a bond

Former Judge John F. Cleonan, for the trotting association, said the motion was simply an attempt to get a favorable deadjudicated by both the judicial term of the court and the appellate division.

"Washington secured a very good man for manager in Joe Cantillon," Johnson. "The fans here will find him just the right sort of a person to build a winning team. He has had wide experience in the game as player, umpire and manager, and he may be depended upon to develop a, set of men who will bring the Nationals up the line in one season. I don't know what are the plans of the Washington owners and Manager Cantillon, but I am sure that the gentlemen at the head of the club are boti liberal and painstaking, and will heartlly co-operate in any good plan for the im provement of the team that Manager Cantillon may suggest.
